Forest Study Cedar Valley

Fictional original research data for browser tests.

The Cedar Valley team planted 240 oak seedlings in autumn.

After one year, 216 seedlings survived the first winter.

The survival rate is ninety percent.

Field protocol

Researchers measure growth on the first Monday of each month.

The average annual height gain is 32 centimetres.

A protective fence keeps deer away from the experimental plot.